14 Describe the organizational action and, if applicable, the date of the action or the date against which shareholders' ownership is measured for the action ▶ During the year ended December 31, 2020, Youngevity International, Inc. ("YGYI") declared and paid monthly cash distributions on its outstanding 9.75% Series D Cumulative Redeemable Preferred Stock. Distributions were paid on the 15th (or next business day) of each calendar month during 2020.

15 Describe the quantitative effect of the organizational action on the basis of the security in the hands of a U.S. taxpayer as an adjustment per share or as a percentage of old basis ▶ See attached.

16 Describe the calculation of the change in basis and the data that supports the calculation, such as the market values of securities and the valuation dates ▶ The taxability of the distribution is based on YGYI's earnings and profits ("E&P") as computed for U.S. federal income tax purposes. YGYI's calculation of its current and accumulated E&P applicable to the 2020 distributions resulted in an E&P deficit. Because YGYI did not have any E&P available for distribution in 2020, no amount is treated as a dividend and the entire distribution per share is treated as a non-dividend distribution and taken into account under the rules described in Part II, Line 15.

Form 8937

January through December 2020

Part II Line 15

As applied, each of the monthly distributions is treated as a non-dividend distribution when received or constructively received. A non-dividend distribution is a nontaxable return of capital to the extent of the shareholder's tax basis in such share. Tax basis in such share is reduced by the amount of the nontaxable portion of the distribution. The portion of the non-dividend distributions in excess of the shareholder's basis in such share is treated as gain for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Shareholders should consult their own tax advisors to determine the income tax consequences of their specific situation.

The monthly per share distributions paid during 2020 include:
